This lecture will discuss a diverse range of cases encountered in daily practice where judgement calls need to be made in the field of small animal internal medicine. What to do with a case of IMHA that is not responding anymore? What if the trilostane is not working in that Cushing's patient? What if our arthritic patient needs NSAIDs as well as steroids for an immune mediated disease? Can I use NSAIDs in a dog on prednisolone for Addison's?

Stijn will provide his perspective as an experienced internist and will thereby attempt to enhance the delegates' capacity to make those judgement calls themselves in future.
